CEDAR RAPIDS OFFICE

Helping clients balance risk and reward is a priority for Sarah Gayer. In her intellectual property and commercial litigation practice, Sarah works with clients to understand their goals, risk tolerance, and expectations, and she helps them find solutions that match their comfort level.

"I listen to clients and give advice targeted to their specific situation," Sarah says. No matter the problem, Sarah works to ensure that her clients are comfortable with potential risks and resulting rewards of any chosen course of action.

Sarah's trademark work includes clearance opinions, registration, maintenance, and rights enforcement including litigation. Sarah assists U.S. companies to protect their trademark rights around the world. She also regularly represents companies in proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

In order to become a registered patent attorney, Sarah needed a science background. To achieve her goal, she pursued post-baccalaureate studies in biology and chemistry, including genetics, cell physiology, and botany.

As a native of Sioux City, Iowa, Sarah was raised with hard work as an important value. Her thoughtful approach to the practice of law embraces that value. Sarah applies her knowledge and experience to find the right fit for her clients' business needs.
